

Greg Clough

Senior Vice President of Development and Redevelopment

Greg Clough is the Senior Vice President of Development and Redevelopment at Phillips Edison & Company (PECO). Greg joined the company in 2008 as Senior Director of Redevelopment, and promoted to Vice President Redevelopment in 2011, then to Vice President Redevelopment, Portfolio Management in 2015.

Prior to joining Phillips Edison, Greg had a successful career working for developers such as David Hocker & Associates, Heritage Property Investment Trust, and Centro Properties. Over 30+ years, he has served in various roles such as Marketing Director, Director National Accounts, Director of Redevelopment, VP Anchor Leasing and VP Redevelopment. His experience in commercial real estate is extensive and has led to his success in redeveloping multiple properties throughout his career.

In this new role as Senior Vice President of Development and Redevelopment at Phillips Edison & Company, Greg is responsible for expanding grocery development relationships and directly managing PECO's grocery store replacement program. Greg received his bachelor's degree from Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green, KY. He holds his Certified Commercial Investment Member (CCIM) designation and licensed as a real estate broker in the state of Kentucky.
